THOUGHTS ON MAGAZINES

Among the various changes that have occurred these past months, the changes to our magazine collection have seemed to stump some.

The problem first arose when I began to notice some titles drying up at the beginning of September due to a miscommunication with our vendor. Once clarified, I took the opportunity to evaluate our collection and make changes to the order before renewing.

Circulation statistics were used to weed out titles that were not going out. Based on feedback from the community, I also added 10 new youth titles as well as titles on other topics of interest (cooking, gardening, history, and woodworking).

The final list was compiled of favorites and newcomers, though it has seems some favorites fell behind and have been missed. I am always welcome to feedback and we track requests for titles as they come over the desk, phone, or web. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me, and I will endeavor to find a mutual solution in the near future.

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

Walk into a library and you can
Feel the quiet and the chance
To just sit with someone else's ideas
Or your own thoughts.

Walk into a library and you can't help but feel,
Smarter, more erudite,
Where the sheer weight of the books and
what they hold,
Is literally staggering.

Walk into a library and you can feel
The sacredness of this secular space.
Available to you for the asking,
With librarians as the guides for the curious and the willing.
